

Feud In Haile's Family Reported to Paris Today Over Italian Policies

Ethiopian Heir Apparent Resents Also Preference Shown to Younger Brother; Feud May Split the Nation.

ROME EXCITED

Populace Acclaims Il Duce's Order Issued Tuesday on Mobilization; Turbulent Demonstrations.

Paris, Aug. 7 (AP).—A feud in the family of Emperor Haile Selassie was reported today in a dispatch to the newspaper Le Matin from Asmara, Eritrea, to be threatening to split Ethiopia.

The Ethiopian heir apparent, Asfaw Tafari, was reported to be embittered at preference shown to his younger brother, Makonnen, who was appointed governor of Harar province, and to disapprove of the emperor's Italian policy.

The dispatch said that Asfaw Tafari, governor of Wollo province, was turning more and more against his father daily and that an open breach appeared to be imminent.

Rome Excited.

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP).—The war department summoned more potential officers from home and abroad today as the populace, aroused anew by Premier Mussolini's order constituting three new divisions, acclaimed his Ethiopian policy.

All prospective officers of the classes from 1909 to 1914 (men born in those years) who have not completed officers' training were ordered by the war department to resume it by November 15. They will complete the training by next May 15.

The order also applied to pensioned officers under 39 who "still aspire" to readmission to military service, as well as officers who have left the service because of foreign residence.

The popular excitement was reflected in turbulent demonstrations at San Remo and Asti, headquarters for the two newly constituted divisions of regulars, and Milan and surrounding communities, from which the recruits will be drawn.

The populace swarmed into the streets, singing fascist hymns, cheering and waving banners and placards acclaiming Il Duce.

The press alternated in heaping praise on the "unwavering determination" of Italy and making derisive phrases at Great Britain and the League of Nations.

The order recalling potential officers was considered another step in the general program to provide Italy with the million men it has decided are necessary to meet any contingency.

The war department order followed closely an announcement from the Italian embassy in London that several thousand enrollments from officials and soldiers living abroad had swelled the list of volunteers for Italy's East African army.

It was announced that Premier Mussolini had received a telegram from the former combatants association of Italians, reporting that "Italian combatants of New York, in extraordinary assembly, affirmed indefatigable adherence to your excellency and readiness to give blood for the triumph of the impregnable right of the Italian nation."

10 Millions in Toll

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) Port Said, Egypt, Aug. 7.—Approximately 240,000 Italian troops and laborers have passed through the Suez Canal in the last six months, enroute to East Africa, official figures disclosed today.

In a single day recently, nine Italian transports laden with soldiers, airplanes, tanks and artillery ammunition made the passage from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea.

Not all Italian transports are bound for East Africa, however. The statistics show that in the last three weeks, six large Italian steamers carrying more than 5,000 Italian soldiers suffering from malaria, dysentery and typhoid made the passage for Italy.

Officials estimated that in the last three months, the Italian government has paid the Suez administration $10,000,000 in canal tolls on war transports.

Shipping circles in this seaport on the north end of the canal said that American, British and other foreign off and timber concerns are declining to sell goods to Italians unless they pay cash.

Wearing of Scanties on Kingston Streets is Frowned Upon Here

That the women of Kingston object to people appearing on the streets in scanty attire was brought to the attention of the Common Council at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening by Mrs. Clara Norton Reed, chairman of the good government committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs, who urged the aldermen to take some action to abate the practice.

The question was referred to the laws and rules committee to confer with the police department to ascertain what action, if any, could be taken. Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill informed the council that there was a section in the city charter that gave the police power to take action.

Mrs. Reed, who was extended the invitation of the floor at the request of Alderman Zucca, said that she desired to bring up again the matter of people appearing improperly clad on the streets. She said that the reason for the complaint was two groups of people who had appeared the other day in one of our theatres clad only in very brief shorts and halters. She said that for three or four years past there had been a temporary ruling enforced in the city.

If Ellenville, Woodstock and other places in Ulster county banned the wearing of scanty costumes on the streets she said she saw no reason why Kingston should not take similar action. She said that on Wall street she had seen men and women appear scantily clad. Last year a local ruling had been enforced that those appearing in scanty bathing dress should wear some outer covering over the swim suit.

The women of the city, said Mrs. Reed, were not asking that arrests be made but that people appearing in scanties be ordered to get back into their cars and return home to get more clothing.

Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill suggested that the subject be referred to the laws and rules committee to confer with the police department.

Mrs. Reed said that if the police knew they have the authority to make arrests in such cases they would do so. It was during the month of August that people seemed to roam the streets the most scantily attired.

The corporation counsel said that there was a provision in the city charter in regard to improper attire and that that provision gave the police power to act.

Damage Claims Filed. Mrs. Evelyn Kravus filed a claim to recover $50 damages from the city for injuries she said she had received in a fall on the city hall steps on July 8. She said she had been at the water board office on business and was leaving the building by the front steps when she slipped and fell. A heavy rain was

HER LAST DOLLAR DAY—WELL GIRLS, YOU KNOW WHY

Wedding bells will soon ring out for one of the attractive girls who for the past few years has been employed in one of Kingston's active stores.

This comely young lady, whose winning smile is a feature of the store as she greets everyone who approaches her section, was considerably affluter the other day when a Freeman reporter happened to pass.

"You know, May," she was overheard to say, "this will be my last Dollar Day. I came here a little over six years ago on Dollar Day and my first day's record was so good that I earned a bonus and the boss gave me a permanent job."

Sensing a story, the reporter moved closer in an effort to get more complete details. It was unavailing. The girl blushed, became reticent, and began rearranging the stock in her section of the store.

"Don't you tell a soul," she warned her friend, "or I'll never speak to you again."

"Oh, all right," was the other girl's rejoinder. "But I thought you might get the boss to double the wedding gift if you had a record sale this Dollar Day."

The reporter suddenly grasped the idea that his presence wasn't needed and that it would be best not to divulge names and dates, but you can guess.

Democratic Conventions In City Selected Candidates

Donnarumma, Mutari And VanEtten Named As Candidates In County

George Mutari Is a Surprise Candidate for Sheriff's Office—Is Named by Supervisor Shults of Saugerties.

CARR REPLACED

Dr. Carr First Choice for Coroner, Declines Nomination Today—Van Etten Named.

Charles A. Van Etten said this afternoon he was not a candidate for coroner on the Democratic ticket. "No one said anything to me about it. They should ask me first. I am not a candidate and you can put that in the paper tonight," he said.

Mr. Van Etten made the statement when he was being congratulated by newspapermen.

Receiving the recommendation for the nomination for sheriff was not only a surprise to George Mutari of Saugerties, but to the delegates as well at the Democratic county convention held Tuesday afternoon at the Municipal Auditorium, for the first intimation Mr. Mutari had that he was to be selected as a candidate for sheriff was when he appeared at the convention that afternoon.

In accepting the nomination Mr. Mutari said "This is indeed a surprise to me. I have been fortified with facts and figures to plead with the Democratic organization for a further reduction in the county tax budget."

The slate selected by the convention, which was nearly an hour late in getting started, follows:

Member of assembly—Robert Donnarumma of this city.

Sheriff—George Mutari of Saugerties.

Coroner—Dr. Fred Carr of this city, who refused the nomination this morning and was replaced by Charles A. Van Etten.

Commissioner of public welfare—left to a committee to select.

A Surprise Candidate

Mr. Mutari was not only surprised himself in receiving the nomination for sheriff, but the delegates were also surprised as he had not even been mentioned as a possible candidate for the office.

His name was placed before the convention by John Shults of Saugerties. In naming Mr. Mutari the speaker said that Mr. Mutari was president of the Saugerties Taxpayers' Association and also president of the Ulster County Taxpayers' Association.

The nomination was seconded by Supervisor Herbert George.

"Indeed a Surprise." Mr. Mutari in accepting the nomination said that it was indeed a surprise. He had never known he had so many friends present. "I had come today," said he, "fortified with facts and figures to plead with the Democratic organization for a further reduction of the county budget as the taxpayers back home are having difficult times, and as the taxpayers realized what the Democratic Board of Supervisors has done, I have fought the fight for three years for tax reduction. During that time I have faithfully and heartily worked for the benefit of all the people, not a few."

At the call for nominations for member of assembly the chair recognized Elmer M. Nathan of this city, who placed the name of Mr. Donnarumma before the convention.

Nathan said that the man he nominated had been born and raised in the Sixth ward of the city where he was well known for his loyalty and ability. There was no reason, said Mr. Nathan, why Ulster county should not have a Democratic assemblyman, and if the delegates gave Mr. Donnarumma their support he

Endorse Judge Schirrick

The resolution stated that Judge Schirrick had held trial terms in almost all of the counties of this judicial district and has earned the admiration and respect of the bar in those counties.

Rhode Island Elects Republican Causing Concern For New Deal

Republican Leader Snell in Washington Declares "It's the Beginning of the End For the New Deal"

The first Rhode Island Congressional District yesterday elected a Republican to a house seat now Democratic, arousing dispute over whether a national trend against the new deal was signified.

Demanding repudiation of Roosevelt policies, Charles F. Risk won a plurality of almost 13,000 where the district went Democratic by one of over 20,000 at the last election. Complete returns gave him 48,023 to 35,054 for the new deal defender, Antonio Prince.

Representative Snell, the Republican leader, epitomized G. O. P. reaction at Washington with "it's the beginning of the end for the new deal" as a national significance of the vote because it was in New England, where they indicated the new deal looks less for support than toward the south and west.

Mississippi and Virginia also battled yesterday. A wealthy lumberman—Hugh L. White—led four others at the latest counting for governor in the former state.

In the Virginia Democratic primary to seek seats in the general assembly, only a few contests remained unsettled this afternoon.

"What I Expected."

Atlanta, Aug. 7 (AP).—Governor Eugene Talmadge, New Deal critic, said "that's just what I expected" upon learning today that a Republican platform was victorious over a pro-New Deal Democrat in Rhode Island's special congressional election.

Attleboro, Mass., Aug. 7 (AP).—U. S. Representative Joseph W. Martin (R) of Massachusetts, commenting on the Republican victory in yesterday's Rhode Island election, said today "little Rhode Island points the road down which will travel the presidential parade of 1936."

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Republican State Chairman Melvin Eaton, in a congratulatory telegram to Charles F. Risk, elected to congress in Rhode Island yesterday on an anti-New Deal platform, said "your victory gives further indication of a Republican victory in the nation in 1936."

284 VIOLATIONS IN JULY ON LAUNDRY WAGES.

Albany, August 7.—(Special)—State Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews today reported 284 violations for July of the mandatory minimum wage order for women and minors in the laundry industry, although it was declared that most of the infractions were of such minor character that but three legal prosecutions were started, two of which resulted in fines and one of which is still pending.

Sixty-six of the violations were adjusted by inspectors on the day of finding the violation, 17 were adjusted at a later date and 130 were corrected by written correspondence, while 35 were placed on the calendar for hearings.

In the total of cases adjusted during July, the sum of $471.95 was collected in wages due 434 employes. The two court convictions involved working illegal hours, and fines of $20 and $5 were imposed on the employers.

Seas, Hooker Gains. Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Seas, Hooker and Co. announced today an increase of 2 1/2 per cent in wages for the first six months of the year as compared with the corresponding period of last year. Seas, Hooker and Co. reported that the increase was 2 1/2 per cent, or $174,122, on an average of $144,459,500 for the same period in 1934, an increase of $27,442,500.

Salida, Colo., Aug. 7 (AP).—The bodies of three men were recovered early today from the wreckage of a narrow gauge freight train which jumped the tracks at a curve and came to a stop on a mountain side last night. Seven men were injured and officials of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad said others may be found.

Burger Is Nominated

Herman I. DuBois nominated Charles W. Burger of the Tenth ward for alderman-at-large. He said in announcing Mr. Burger's name to the convention that Mr. Burger had been twice elected as an alderman in the Tenth ward but had only served one term; the second time being thrown out by the present administration.

Waved Tax Receipt. "This is one of the happiest moments in my life," said Mr. Burger to the delegates. "For two years ago I was elected by the then mayor of the city of Kingston over some property question."

"I want to announce to you that I have just received a tax receipt from the city of Kingston over some property question."

Manila, Aug. 7 (AP).—Seven men died in last week's floods in central and northern Luzon Island if was in Manila today with communication partially restored.

Martin For Mayor and Burger For President of Common Council in City

William B. Martin Gets Opportunity To Run for Mayorship of City on Democratic Ticket—Is Well-Known.

BURGER TAXPAYER

Waves Tax Receipt—Had Been Ousted as Alderman For Not Being on Tax Roll.

William B. Martin realized an ambition of 10 years standing on Tuesday afternoon when he received the recommendation for nomination for mayor on the Democratic ticket (this fall at the Democratic city convention, held at the close of the county convention, in the Municipal Auditorium on Broadway. His running mate is Charles W. Burger, who was elected alderman twice in the Tenth ward, serving one term and being removed from office two years ago when it was learned his name did not appear on the city tax roll.

In accepting the recommendation for nomination for alderman-at-large, Mr. Burger waved a city tax bill in his hand as he told the delegates he was now a taxpayer and had been one for some time.

At the close of the county convention a recess of 15 minutes was ordered by City Judge Bernard A. Culliton, chairman of the Democratic county committee, who presided at both conventions. Judge Culliton said that at the close of the quarter hour the city convention would go into session, but as a matter of fact it was fully an hour before the convention convened.

The delay was caused by the rumor that there was a surplus of candidates for alderman-at-large and the leaders of the party did not want to have a fight for the nomination on the convention floor. Some of the candidates were taken to one side by earnest groups of delegates. All of the candidates agreed to not have their names presented to the convention with the exception of Mr. Burger, who had been expressing his intention of being a candidate for the office for some time.

When the threatened aldermanic fight had been peacefully settled without it being aired on the convention floor Chairman Culliton called the convention to order and recognized Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, who in a glowing address placed the name of William B. Martin before the convention as the Democratic standard bearer in the city election this fall.

Mr. Flanagan said that as the hour was growing late he would be brief. He said that the man who he would name for the office of mayor was a man who was known to all and who had been in public life for a good many years. This man had been elected four times as a Democratic alderman in one of the strongest Republican wards in the city. He had served as president of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association and had also served with credit as assessor during the Block and Carey administrations. His candidate was William B. Martin who, he said, was a married man with five children, who had devoted himself to every Democratic interest in the city.

Alderman Joseph Epstein of Sixth ward seconded the nomination. Mr. Herman I. DuBois also seconded the nomination of Mr. Martin.

Ambition Fulfilled

Mr. Martin in accepting the nomination said that words could not express the feeling of gratitude he had for the delegates. "You, my friends," he said, "for the past 10 years have tried to put across this great honor for me. I want to say that during the past 10 years we did not give up. Stronger men were nominated and we drew a lot, but today you have rallied to my assistance and given me the greatest honor that could be bestowed on any man, the position of mayor of the city. I ask you to elect me your same loyal support during the coming campaign and I know that you and the people will make me the next mayor of Kingston."

Public Confidence Restored by Banks

American Bankers Association Describes Its Activities to Create Better Understanding Regarding Banks

NEW YORK.—Eight different lines of activity through which the American Bankers Association is constantly aiming to promote better public understanding and opinion in regard to banking and the attitude of bankers toward legislation are described in detail in a statement made public here by R. S. Hecht, president of the association.

The aim, he says, is "to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in regard to the banks," through fostering informative bank advertising in the newspapers and in other ways. The statement was issued in reply to suggestions, received during a nationwide public educational program in regard to "the business of banking and its place in the life of our country."

Mr. Hecht declares that "we have tried very hard to convince the public that the banking fraternity has truly profited by the lessons of the past, is determined to approach all questions of banking policy from the broad viewpoint of public welfare and is prepared to carry its full share of the burden in connection with all efforts to restore sound prosperity in this country."

The Means Employed

In describing the various measures of the association "to exert a beneficial influence on public opinion regarding the functions, methods and operations of banks," Mr. Hecht enumerated the following activities:

1. The Public Education Commission, which prepares plain language talks about banking for use of bankers and others before schools, civic clubs and over the radio.
2. The Constructive Customer Relations program, installed in many banks to help qualify bank employees to promote a better informed and more sympathetic attitude among their customers regarding banking.
3. The Publicity Department, supplying city and country daily and weekly newspapers with articles regarding banking and allied subjects and furnishing the general press with news and information regarding the activities of the association.
4. The Advertising Department, supplying members of the association with a series of informative newspaper advertisements setting forth in brief, popular language the methods and policies under which banks operate, their effective practices for protecting depositors' funds, the services they render and the various ways in which they cooperate with business in their own communities in fostering sound recovery and progress.
5. The Executive Officers and the Committee on Banking Studies, who are active, particularly at Washington, in consulting with Administration and Congressional leaders in formulating proposals for banking reform based on broad lines of public welfare.
6. The Agricultural Commission, promoting among bankers in the farm districts the practice of aiding their farm customers in installing on their farms better financial and operating methods.
7. The American Institute of Banking, having primarily to do with the technical education of the younger banker, but now directing these efforts toward also playing a part in improving public relations for banking as a whole, particularly through erecting the public responsibilities and the ethical aspects of practical banking.
8. The publication of "Banking," the official organ of the association, circulating among bankers, bank directors, business executives, economists, law firms, government departments, libraries, colleges, public schools and other publications, presenting articles regarding banking and banking viewpoints.

The Objective Sought

In commenting on the foregoing program, Mr. Hecht says that it is not "the primary objective to attract attention particularly to the American Bankers Association as such, but rather to focus attention on and give impetus to those ideas which it believes are beneficial in promoting understanding and solidarity among banking, business and the public." He adds:

"Our program for the development of satisfactory public relations for banking does not consist merely of newspaper publicity. It is calculated to produce a continuous and cumulative effect by varied efforts which are aimed to work day in and day out to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in regard to the banks."

"To have favorable things said about the banking business in the newspapers and over the radio is, the association recognizes, very helpful toward creating a sound public opinion regarding banking. But the association believes that the most important thing ultimately is to foster throughout the banking profession the doing sincerely of those things that reflect favorably the sound, helpful practices of the business of banking, and that then the true news of its constructive activities will constitute the best answers to misrepresentations aimed at banks and bankers."

Predicts Farm Loan Expansion

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — With marked improvement in agriculture already apparent, and further improvement confidently expected, a greatly expanded volume of farm credit will be required, especially short-term credit, according to a statement here recently by W. I. Myers, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C. He was speaking before the Graduate School of Banking, conducted jointly by the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgers University.

"Some people have expressed a fear that the Cooperative Production Credit Associations are threatening the business of country banks, but these institutions have neither the desire nor the resources to monopolize a field which is still in the infancy of development," Governor Myers said. "Farmers who get their credit on time or by charge accounts have a basis for cash loans and should be buying their credit from a bank, production credit association or other institutions that sell credit on a business basis."

No Favors Granted In Gas Tax Sales

Albany, August 7.—(Special)—County and other municipal governments authorizing or permitting tax-free sales of motor fuel to employees or other persons are liable for payment of state tax on all such sales, the state tax commission warned today.

In a letter sent to officials of counties, cities, towns and villages in New York state, Deputy Commissioner Maurice A. Stephenson, director of the motor fuel tax bureau, requested cooperation in the abolition of this practice. He urged all disbursing officers be informed of the regulations of the law, and suggested that a notice be posted advising employees of their liability for payment of motor fuel taxes.

Recent investigation of abnormal increases in motor fuel consumption by certain municipalities disclosed the fact that this method of tax evasion by public employees has been depriving the state of a substantial amount of revenue. It was shown that certain executives and other public employees have been purchasing motor fuel direct from municipal governments without payment of the tax.

Mr. Stephenson's letter continues: "County, state and other municipal governments are permitted to purchase motor fuel tax-free for use in government owned cars. This privilege is not extended to government employees, notwithstanding that the employee's car may be used in whole, or in part, in the performance of his duties."

"State employees operating privately owned cars and used in the performance of their duties are required to pay tax on motor fuel consumed in their automobiles. This requirement is universally applicable to all government employees, federal, state and local, including also employees working on relief projects and receiving salaries and mileage allowance from relief funds."

"A municipal corporation authorizing or permitting the sale of motor fuel tax-free to employees is liable for the payment of state taxes on all such sales (section 285 of the tax law)."

Gas alarm!

A sharp-toothed squirrel, a boring insect, a dragging anchor, a storm—these and other things may cause a telephone cable to "spring a leak." It's important for us to have instant warning of such a happening before the entrance of moisture puts the telephone lines in the cable "out of order."

For that reason many cables are filled with harmless dry nitrogen gas under pressure. The moment there is even a pin-point leak, pressure drops in the section affected, and a warning alarm is set off in the local wire chief's office. The trouble can be quickly located and repairs made promptly.

This "gas alarm" represents an important step in the process of keeping telephone service uninterrupted. New York Telephone Company.

Walsh Waved Flag

As Mr. Nathan sat down the floor was obtained by Mr. Walsh, who said he was a native of the town of Kingston, and represented 589 voters. He said that the county had been controlled and ruled in the past by men who refused to support the governor and the President. What was needed were men who would support the flag and uphold it. The men chosen today must be men of honor; men of ability, not just men to fill in a blank space on the ballot. "I am a native of the town of Kingston," said the speaker, "and was born in 1880." "Last fall," he said, "we sent men to Albany and to Washington to support our governor and our President, but they failed to support our great President. Let us stand for men who will support Roosevelt and not Wall Street and capitalism. Go back to your hamlets," said the speaker "and ask them to purchase American made goods and not foreign goods."

Donnarumma Accepts

Mr. Donnarumma in accepting the nomination said that if he would be elected he would give to the people of Ulster county a true and honest administration.

Dr. Carr Chosen

Raymond Garraghan of this city presented the name of Dr. Fred Carr of Fair street as the Democratic candidate for the office of coroner. He said that a coroner was needed in Kingston, and for that reason he was nominating a young doctor of sterling character.

Dr. Carr was not present at the convention and Judge Culliton explained that the doctor was busy holding his office hours and was unable to attend, but that he expected him to appear later when he would be introduced. Dr. Carr is a son of Arthur Carr of the undertaking firm of A. Carr & Son of Pearl street.

Dr. Carr declined to run this morning and has been replaced on the ticket by Charles A. Van Etten, local undertaker of 43 Derrenbacher street, and librarian of the Third Judicial Law Library in the Ulster county court house.

Announcement of the declaration of Dr. Carr and the appointment of Mr. Van Etten to fill his place by the committee on vacancies was announced at noon today by City Judge Bernard A. Culliton, county leader of the Democratic party.

No Candidate

Attorney Arthur B. Ewig moved that the nomination of a candidate for the office of commissioner of public welfare be left in the hands of a vacancy committee to be appointed by the chair.

Judge Culliton appointed as such a committee Messrs. J. J. McGrath, Joseph Sorce and John Husbrouck.

Delegates Elected.

The convention elected the following delegates and alternates to attend the judicial convention to be held at Albany during the month of September: Delegates, Judge Culliton, William H. Grogan, Chris J. Flanagan, Arthur B. Ewig, Francis T. Murray, Clarence Hoornbeck, Thomas Plunkett and Joseph H. Forman. The alternates are Daniel Hoffman, Manuel Dittenheimer, Herman Cohen, Mark Sampson, Elmer H. Natha, William A. Kaercher, Philip Slutsky and Judge Henry E. McKenzie.

Point With Pride.

Another resolution was introduced and adopted which stated "We take pride in the achievements of our national and New York state administration and the progress made toward national recovery and that we look forward with confidence to a business, industrial and agricultural recovery, now under way, greater than ever in our country's history, and that appreciating the marvelous efforts of our national and state administration which are bringing about security, contentment and restoration of prosperity, we, the delegates at this unofficial convention, pledge our continued support."

Resolution of Respect.

The convention also adopted unanimously resolutions of respect to the memory of the late John E. Kraft, Supervisor William Wright of Marlborough; Lawrence Bannor, of this city and Francis Doyle of Kingston and Ellenville.

The convention stood a moment in silence as the resolution was adopted.

The county convention then adjourned and was followed by the city convention, an account of which will be found elsewhere.

Balestre Death Declared Suicide

Death by suicide was the verdict rendered by Coroner Leston D. DuBois of New Paltz following an autopsy performed by Dr. Joseph Jacobson and Dr. William Branner of New Paltz Tuesday afternoon on the body of Theodore J. Balestre, 29, of 1952 40th street, Brooklyn.

The dead body of Balestre was found Tuesday morning by Trooper Paul Senecal, who noticed an apparently abandoned car some distance down a side road which branches off of 9-W near the railroad bridge at West Park. Senecal notified Sergeant Lockhart and the sheriff's office and the two troopers with Deputy Sheriff Abram Molyneux made an investigation which disclosed Balestre's body slumped over the driving wheel of a Dodge sedan, a bullet hole through his head, the seat of the car covered with blood and a .32 calibre revolver, one chamber of which had been discharged, lying at the man's feet.

At the autopsy Tuesday it was found that the bullet which caused Balestre's death had gone completely through his head and could not be found. Powder marks extending for some distance around the spot where the bullet had entered showed that the revolver had been held close to the head when discharged. Just how long Balestre had been dead could not be ascertained accurately, but it is thought that he had been dead about three days.

In view of all the facts in the case, so far as known and after conferring with the officers who handled the case, Coroner DuBois rendered his verdict of death by suicide, although it is recognized that Balestre might have been shot by some person sitting by his side in the car.

Balestre's brother, who is studying for the priesthood at Manhattan College, New York city came to New Paltz Tuesday night, accompanied by an undertaker from New York and Balestre's remains were turned over to him by the coroner and were taken to the city.

Coroner DuBois learned that the dead man was 29 years of age and unmarried. He was a son of Joseph and Rose Consello Balestre, natives of Italy, and was born in Vineland, N. J. He had been employed as a delivery man for the World-Telegram, but was on a vacation trip at the time he met his death.

According to his brother Balestre left home about two weeks ago accompanied by another man and two girls, their destination being the Catskills. They had heard nothing from him since that time. The names of Balestre's companions on the trip were not given and the coroner was unable to obtain information as to their whereabouts at present, or whether or not they had returned home.

Balestre's brother stated that he knew of no reason why the unfortunate man should have been led to take his own life.

GOOD SUMMER BUSINESS

It might be the Major Angus boom, delayed nearly a year, or it might be the Dawes boom, hardly retarded at all. At any rates, there is a business improvement now under way which, though far from startling in the level yet attained, represents a remarkable gain for this time of year and for the current national situation. We have had business surges that ended in midsummer, and some that carried on in midsummer; but one that starts in midsummer after a relapse, and in the face of so much business pessimism, deserves respectful attention and receives it. If we except 1933 (a combination of political enthusiasm and expectation of mounting prices), says a business writer,
 "there has been no midsummer upturn since 1929 to compare with the records of the last two weeks." A Chicago business analyst remarks:

Recent improvement in the durable goods lines, just short of remarkable, would indicate the passing of the depression. The machine tool line has started with a bang. Heavy tools costing many thousands per unit are moving, and inquiries are numerous. Such tools are not being purchased unless the companies buying them have orders for many months ahead to keep them busy.

"Machine tools" are machines to make the tools that make things for the consuming public. Here is a sign that the economists have been waiting and hoping for ever since the great idleness that settled over the country in 1930.

There are many other cheerful signs. Automobile production, already high, has continued in midsummer almost unchanged. Steel production after a relapse is sharply rising, with big orders in sight.
 Crops are generally good, a fact usually considered one of the most hopeful of all signs. Retail trade is improving. Corporate earnings reported for the second quarter surpassed expectations. The stock market lately has been surprisingly strong, with every indication of the bull movement continuing. Electric power consumption, a trustworthy indication of industrial activity, has been rising sharply. And all this in the face of what most business men regard as the bearish effect of reform legislation at Washington. A business recovery that could come in spite of drastic reports, or at least along with them, would be the real thing. The public, often disappointed, watches more hopefully than usual.

WARNINGS FOR DRIVERS

Acting on the theory that any remedy is worth trying once in the effort to reduce the number of automobile accidents, the chief of police in Nassau county, N. Y., has authorized warning cards for traffic violators.

Policemen will give the cards to minor violators in the hope that a warning to the wise will be sufficient. Each card is illustrated on one side with two pictures. They show a 5-year-old child killed in an accident and the charred skeleton of a man whose car struck a tree and burned. On the other side is printed an explanation of the accidents and this additional comment: "This is a courteous warning. We hope you will heed it. Observe the rules of the road. Have consideration for the lives of other people."

If the cards do not turn the trick, more drastic measures will doubtless follow. But it has been true that many accidents were caused by thoughtlessness or ignorance. Such accidents ought easily to be avoided.

THE INVENTED HISTORY

Cecil B. De Mille, the film producer, turning to historical subjects for his pictures, finds that with current knowledge of history and with the historical books available for general reading, most of the "invented history" he thinks "invented." It isn't that it is "invented," it is that it is "invented."

way history is taught in the schools, then there is something wrong with the educational system which distorts the past and destroys our perspective of present-day international problems.

He should have patience. History is usually taught pretty straight in the colleges. As for perversion of public knowledge there is doubtless a good deal of that, but give readers time. The general reader who used to be the "gentle" reader has begun only lately to discover history, by way of the historical novel and the half-fictional device of writing a historical period around a historical figure. Naturally such treatment presents too narrow and personal a picture of the great stream of people, events and trends which makes a historic period. But it persuades many people, endowed with intelligence and curiosity about the past, to go ahead and correct their information and fill out the picture themselves.
 That is the greatest of human studies, ever growing, widening and deepening in interest as the reader proceeds.

SILVER DOLLAR PAY ROLL

The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio
 plans to meet its August 1 pay roll with 110,000 silver dollars. It has made special arrangements with the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland to deliver the enormous load of coins. The dollars will weigh 7,877 pounds. If they were stacked in one pile, it would be 750 feet high—taller than most of Ohio's skyscrapers.

The purpose of this strange plan,
 it is said, is to make a check, if possible, on what happens to money in industrial pay rolls. Stores have been asked to report the numbers of dollars they receive. Whether this be a publicity stunt or a piece of serious sociological research, it is worth watching. An offhand guess, made in advance of the big silver payment, is that a lot of those dollars will get back into the banks at once. Some may go into the old sock.

REDUCING REMEDIES

When it is remembered that our insurance companies tell us that one in every five of the population is overweight it is easy to understand why "reducing remedies" find such a large sale.

Every overweight knows that if he (or she) cuts down on the amount of food eaten and increases the amount of exercise, weight is bound to come off, in fact it must come off.
 However, some have felt "weak"
 when the amount of food was even slightly reduced and they therefore look for easier methods of reducing.

Some reducing remedies contain Epsom salts which drive some of the water out of the system and so reduce weight. Others have gland extracts—thyroid or pituitary—which reduce weight in those cases where the overweight is really due to a lack of these gland substances in the body.

It has been found that some reducing remedies contain boric acid and that certain skin irritations are due to this boric acid. Thus Dr. A.
 M. Memmesheimer, Leipzig, reports a case of itching redness of the face which later spread to the head, the neck, and the body. The skin became thickened and showed fine scales and blisters. The patient admitted taking a reducing powder. A skin test was made with this powder and it gave a positive reaction on the skin (skin became inflamed). After the patient stopped using the powder the skin became normal.

Dr. Memmesheimer observed two other cases showing another form of skin eruption. Here again the tests were positive when the powder was rubbed into the skin, and the eruption cleared away when the use of the reducing powder was stopped.

A fourth patient, a druggist, suggested of her own accord that the reducing powder might be causing the eruption of her skin and this was shown to be the case as the skin became normal when the reducing powder was discontinued.

It is suggested therefore that in those who are overweight which find that the skin has become irritated the possibility of a reducing powder causing the skin symptoms should be remembered.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie is a married man, but he loves Rex Moore and he loves her, yet she is engaged to Mark Albery and he is engaged to Wanda Steele. Albery is intensely jealous, and when Moore goes out of the way enough to try to cause him to have a plane accident, Albery's sister Gladys is running around with the light-minded Jimmy Dallas, and is lying about it. Albery is explaining to Rex how "glad" he is that the young flyer escaped.

Chapter 43

ALIBI

"My dear fellow, how dreadful!"
 said Albery. "You appeal me!
 I'm all in a tremble. Forgive me, if I don't sound quite reasonable. What an escape! We must go into this at once. Why, you might have been killed! You would have been, but for your parachute."

"And think that Laurie was going up with you! It's like a bad dream.
 I can't take it in. You must go thoroughly into it at once. I'm bound to go to Berlin tonight. Shant be able to see you, though I'd give anything to stay."

"Please go into the whole matter
 I give you full powers. I'll tell them they're to give you every facility.
 You must cross-examine every single man on the staff. What a mercy you are safe!"

"You're a very wicked girl!" insisted Laurie.

"I guess I would take a lot to kill me," said Rex Moore.
 And again that ghastly grin distorting Albery's face. He went on talking for several minutes, but afterwards he could not remember a word that he had said.

Only one sentence of Rex Moore's remained in his mind.
 "Please don't tell Laurie, Mr. Albery. I've kept it absolutely dark here. We mustn't let anything come out—on account of the new fuel, you know. Of course, it must have been a mistake."

But to Albery's distracted ears it had seemed that the airman's voice was full of deadly meaning.

Laurie spent four days of almost complete solitude.

Albery was detained in Berlin.
 She did her routine work at the office. Albery had deputed her to look after his correspondence, and she communicated with him by telephone twice every day.

But, on the Monday after Albery's departure, Mr. Mortimer, his colleague from Australia, called on Laurie in her office. This was the good Samaritan who had come to her rescue in Sydney.

She gave him tea in her office. Albery had obviously told him that she and Rex Moore were separated, but he was very tactful. Possibly Albery had hinted that he was going to marry her himself after the divorce. At any rate, Mr. Mortimer was very friendly indeed. He asked most kindly after her sister, and seemed deeply interested in her career, and invited them both to dine with him
 the next evening and go to a show.

Laurie accepted with pleasure.
 Mr. Mortimer was so kind. Gladys would love that. She was so fond of restaurants and theatres.

When Mr. Mortimer had gone, she rang up Nelly Park's home in Streatham.

"This is Laurie Moore speaking," she said, as Nelly answered. "How are you all? I want to speak to Glad.
 Will you call her?"

There was a quite perceptible
 pause, and then Nelly said:
 "Glad isn't in just now, Mrs.
 Moore."

Politics at Random

By BYRON PRICE
 (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

DOG-DAY politics now is at flood tide. It is possible to hear almost every kind of report and prediction about 1936. Few of them amount to much. The fundamentals of the situation remain unchanged.

The experienced politicians, who seldom disagree among themselves, expect Mr. Roosevelt, as the Democratic nominee next year, to appeal to the liberal elements, especially the farmers and labor, and pin his hopes on a combination of the south and the west.

They expect the Republicans to lean strongly toward conservatism, nominate a mid-westerner whom they regard as "safe and sane," and try for a combination of the east and the conservative elements of the west.

They see no likelihood of a strong left-wing independent ticket, and little likelihood of a strong right-wing independent ticket.

They do look for a tremendous effort to break down the customary party lines, with the Democrats trying to attract liberal Republicans, and the Republicans, conservative Democrats.

Third Party Idea Slipping

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The former senator from Washington, Clarence C. Dill, who retired voluntarily last year after a period of service in both houses dating back to 1915, has hit upon an idea for "cashing in"
 on the lessons he learned as a member of congress.

A school teacher before he turned to politics, an important part of his strategy in campaigning for public office was centered around school children. His theory was, if you "get the kids interested in you the votes of mama and papa likely will come your way." He rarely missed an opportunity while campaigning to visit the schools in the towns he happened to be in.

"Almost invariably," he says, "the first question asked me was how does congress pass a bill? And strangely enough it was about the most difficult question to answer I encountered."

It started him to thinking after he decided to quit politics and he hit upon an idea of writing a book to be used as a text book for schools and for information to older persons who are not familiar with the principles and the working of the government.

'Loads Of Bills'
 HE HAS some about the task in quite unorthodox fashion. When completed it probably will be one of the most unusual text books ever published.

Starting with the premise that the subject of government at best is one of the most uninteresting and driest of questions, one of the first things he did was to employ a cartoonist.

THINKS IT'S FUN

A PICTORIAL journey of the bill from the time it is introduced until it is signed by the President is set forth in "tragic fashion. It is an attempt to teach government by a new method.

Dill is not sure how his attempt will be received. He has gone to considerable pains to find out from teachers and others in the field of education whether they think his scheme is practical.

Regardless of whether he makes a go of it, Dill is having a lot of fun with the idea. High atop an office building in downtown Washington he's putting in ten or twelve hours a day at it.

Not even the complex political situation in the capital is able to distract his attention. Efforts to draw him out on politics even for "off the record" conversation are useless.

"I can't remember," he says, "when I didn't want to be a senator. Strangely enough years ago I made up my mind that I didn't want to keep on being one and now that I am out I am sure I never want to be one again."

Talks to Parents

Easy Come, Easy Go
 By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
 "Now what'll you do? You've broken it."

"Oh, I'll ask my mother to buy me another. I break them all the time. This is my third."

Perhaps it was a toy or game or watch that the children were discussing. The same kind of talk may be heard among children—and their elders, too—dozens times a day.

For so many years the land has rejoiced in plenty that we have become accustomed to thinking in terms of easy replacement. We buy carelessly because we buy often; in the end we buy often because we buy carelessly. The children are trained to this point of view from infancy on. They are given cheap toys and many of them are allowed to fling them about and break them and they are given new ones.

loyalty to old and tried toy friends is gone. Betty's doll has lost an arm. "Don't cry, dear, you shall have another." Tommy's first watch was so cheap that it lasted just six months.

Then, parents, faced by money stringency, wonder why their children are so careless, why they carelessly economy and why buying waste is a sign of immaturity.

And if the children are ever to grow up to the high culture retained in true economy, they must from baby-hood be trained to its beauty. For years we have been wasting, and at once we are asked ourselves on our own, "Why do we buy so often?"

buying and squandering as fast as possible. The answer is the place to make the change.

Too many ways, says that are led to waste and easily broken, are a mistake. A few toys, loved and cared for, mended when broken, and replaced when they have been carelessly used, are the best training we can give our children in practice.

We agree with the judge who ruled that a wooden leg does not bar
 a man from operating an automobile. It's wooden heads that cause most of the trouble.—McBarnes,

After so long a time it has now become fashionable to wear suspenders but it looks like it will be quite a while yet before real flannel suspender comes into its own.

Flat Tire
 By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
 "OH, DEAR," sighed Willy Nilly,
 "that is bad luck, and just when we were getting along so nicely."

"Yes, yes,"
 said Christopher, who had flown off the back seat.
 "You have a flat tire all right."

Willy Nilly got out of the car
 and Mrs. Quacko Duck stood by watching him as he worked. She cocked her head on one side and then on the other,
 and looked as though she were very curious.

He hadn't any spare tire so he had to patch the flat one. And it was a hot, dirty job. At last it was finished, and they waited along the road for a little distance, looking for some place where Willy Nilly could wash his hands.

Lehman Asks Funds To Rebuild Bridges

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP).—Governor Herbert H. Lehman moved today to obtain federal funds to rebuild bridges in the upstate New York flood zone as fresh Republican attacks were made on handling of rehabilitation work. The executive asked the federal administration to set aside $1,500,000 of New York state's $11,000,000 emergency highway allotment for bridge reconstruction "in order to relieve the taxpayers of the towns and counties of a substantial part of the replacement cost."

Rev. A.A. Vradenburg Was Fatally Stricken

Former Pastor of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Seized With Stroke While Fishing in Sawkill Creek at Woodstock Where He Was Spending Vacation.

The Rev. Austin A. Vradenburg, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church from 1928 to 1930, was seized with a stroke while fishing in the Sawkill creek at Woodstock on Tuesday and died about 7 o'clock that evening in the Benedictine Hospital. The Rev. Mr. Vradenburg and his wife had started on their vacation on Monday as guests at the home of the Rev. Orson O. Rice, pastor of the Woodstock M. E. Church.

Tuesday he started on a fishing trip along the Sawkill, and was found unconscious on the ground near the banks of the creek by workers who were clearing flood debris. Dr. George S. Lambert of Woodstock was summoned and had the minister removed to the Benedictine Hospital here in an ambulance. The Rev. Mr. Vradenburg had apparently felt the attack coming on for he had reeled in his fishing line and evidently had started back to the Rice home when stricken. He had fallen face downward in a sandbank.

Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

The Rev. Mr. Vradenburg was pastor of the Methodist Church at Modena, having accepted a smaller charge owing to his health. His first charge was in 1905 at Mountainville; 1906 at Pine Bush; 1907 at Kenosha Lake; 1908-09 at Alford, Mass.; 1910-11 at Stockport and Stottville; 1912-13 at Millbrook and Verbank; 1914-16 at Pawling; 1917-19 at Lakeville; 1920-24, First Methodist Church at Beacon; 1925-27 at Hudson; 1928-30 at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church; 1931 at Mt. Kisco.

New Regulations To Protect State Lands

Albany, Aug. 7 (Special).—New regulations, designed to protect state lands, have been adopted by the State Conservation Department. While not aimed particularly at those tourists and others who are now ascending Whiteface Mountain by automobile over the new highway, department officials said that many recent acts of petty vandalism there had prompted them to hasten adoption of the new regulations.

The new rules state that no person shall cut, remove or destroy any trees, timber, plants, flowers or other material of any kind on state lands so acquired pursuant to section 64 of the Conservation law, or enter such lands with intent to do so. No person shall deposit or leave thereon any rubbish or waste material. No person shall remove any material belonging to the state from such state lands without the authorization of the Conservation Department. It was declared here by department officials, that many persons are now able to get to the top of Whiteface Mountain, and that a majority of them know little or nothing about the use of the woods or regulations governing state lands. They climb to the fire observation tower at the summit, and decide they want some sort of souvenir. It is feared that within a short time the entire mountain top will be denuded of any wild vegetable or floral growth, if the new regulations are not enforced.

PRESBYTERIANS WILL HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

The Roundout Presbyterian Sunday school will hold its annual picnic Saturday afternoon and evening at the Y. M. C. A. camp at Lake Glen-erie.

A cordial invitation is extended to the members of the church and to the parents of the children of the school to join the school in making this affair a big success. It is feared that within a short time the entire mountain top will be denuded of any wild vegetable or floral growth, if the new regulations are not enforced.

Everyone is to bring his own lunch but ice cream will be furnished free to all by the school. A special program of games, swimming, etc., is being arranged by the committee and especially interesting will be the camp fire just before leaving for home.

Church Tower Leans.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The leaning tower of old Trinity Church has been checked at 18 inches to the northeast, Hobart B. Upjohn, architect, announced yesterday. The tower was built a hundred years ago, and was once the tall marvel of lower Manhattan. Wall street's great skyscrapers now overshadow it. Upjohn said that three of seventeen caissons which are to be sunk 75 feet down to bed rock have checked the tower from further deviation.

The Missouri highway department has built 723 miles of new roadway this year.

HOUSING QUESTION BOX

Q.—I wish to add a breakfast alcove in the corner of my kitchen. I haven't a large room and wish to make the alcove as small as possible and yet have it comfortable. What size would be practical?

A.—A width of 5 feet 4 inches and a depth of 4 feet 6 inches should prove ample space for a built-in breakfast alcove seating four persons. The table should be 2 feet and the benches 1 foot 5 inches wide. The table should have a very small central support at the end facing the room in order to facilitate entrance to the benches. If the bench is 1 foot 6 inches and the table 2 feet 5 inches in height, this will be a comfortable relationship.

Q.—How deep should I build a cement footing under a chimney?

A.—Chimney footings should be at least 12 inches deep. Test the ground carefully at this point and make sure it is firm. Proper drainage should be provided for the protection of footing areas. Filled earth washes out easily, and many difficulties may arise from footings which have had the earth greatly softened or washed out below them.

Q.—My kitchen does not have a sufficient number of lights. Can outlets for additional ones be installed easily, and where should they be placed?

A.—New outlets for extra lights may be added with very little trouble. Consult an electrical contractor and he will give you an estimate of the time and cost for this work.

If the kitchen is small, a single light properly placed may be sufficient. It might be wise to investigate the various types of indirect fixtures which throw an even light over the entire room.

For a large kitchen, lights may be added above the main working space, the stove, sink, and tables or counters.

Convenient base or wall plugs for various electrical kitchen equipment should be installed at the same time.

Q.—What is the best method for repairing sagging gutters?

A.—Metal gutters are often attached to the eaves with straps of tin or other metal. When these break the gutter sags and prevents proper drainage. To remedy this, remove the broken pieces and replace with a good grade new strap, and inspect all the old straps and refasten them if they seem to be at all weak. Sight along the top of the gutter and see that there is a uniform slope toward the outlet. It may be necessary to shorten or lengthen a strap or two if there is still a sag.

Q.—The slope of my shingle roof is very gradual, and the rain seeps into the valley. How can I remedy this?

A.—Some type of sheet metal flashing should be installed. A non-corrosive metal is preferable, for it does not need painting or other finish. However, if the slope of the roof is too gradual, shingles probably should not have been used and the addition of a complete metal or composition roll roofing material would be advisable.

Housing Hints

Tips on How and What to Improve

Cool Porch

If your house has no porch, or only one facing the sun in the afternoon, add a small porch or terrace on the side of the house, which is coolest during the summer. Built-in wooden benches, boxes for flowers, or lattice for vines may be added, and this space will become a welcome addition to the summer living space.

Closet Floors

If the floor of the closet is raised above the level of the room floor, it will be much easier to sweep out and keep clean.

Care of Floors

Waxed floors, whether the wax is applied directly to the wood or over varnish or shellac, should be dusted with a dry brush or cloth and polished once a week.

Do not use an oil mop, for the oil will soften the wax.

Worn places may be re-waxed separately, but the entire floor should have all wax removed and a new coat applied every 3 or 4 months.

TREND IS AWAY FROM USE OF FRONT PORCH

The past decade has seen a gradual trend in American home building toward the abolition of the front porch.

Utilization of smaller plots of ground, desire for increased privacy, and the general desirability of "living in the back of the house" has been the reason for this trend.

In general, the living room or sun porch, located either in the back or on the side of a house, have supplanted the front porch.

There is nothing new in this practice. European home construction for over a century has followed this same line. Today, the American home is designed to give maximum comfort, privacy, and convenience.

Garages are built as an integral part of houses in many cases, located in the front, thus minimizing driveway costs. Kitchens are frequently built in the front also in easy access of the driveway to simplify delivery of groceries, packages, and the like.

Through intelligent placing of the house and by careful landscaping, many interesting results are obtained. A hedge or row of attractive trees can frequently be placed so as to enclose the back yard, and in this enclosed space formal gardens, possibly a swimming pool or lily pool, flagstone terrace, and similar improvements can make the rear of a home a spot of great beauty and charm.

It is advisable when planning to build to consult an architect and a landscape architect who have first-hand knowledge of the most recent developments and approved practices in home planning. Their knowledge and experience will more than justify the fee paid for the services.

More Workers

McNary, Ariz.—The Cady Lumber Co. here has increased its employed personnel by 200 over 1934. Last year there were 405 employees. At present 600 are at work at the mill. Carpenters and painters in this section are busily engaged and have been since the inauguration of the Federal Housing Administration's program.

When Drawers Stick

If the drawers in kitchen cabinets stick, remove them and sandpaper the edges or sides which are causing the trouble. After the drawer has been properly refitted, apply paraffin to the runways and bottom edges to make them run smoothly.

Six Families Merge
Funds to Build Pool

Adequate bathing pools are often located at too great a distance from a residence to permit their daily use by small children. In one neighborhood of a large city, six residents whose properties were connected and operated in the building and maintenance of a small pool for their children's use. They felt that the saving of time spent in taking their small children to the neighborhood pool and the removal of the danger of permitting the younger children to cross several traffic streets justified the portion of the cost which each family met.

The pool was 12 feet wide and 25 feet long and ranged from one foot to four feet in depth. It was constructed of concrete and surrounded by a four foot brick terrace with a sand box on one side and benches and a frame for awnings on the other. The planting around the terrace was low in order that the entire pool could be seen from each house and thus, not necessitate the presence of an older person at the pool. Recently they have added a small brick open fireplace with a grate and a low white playhouse. The playhouse was designed to harmonize with the surrounding houses and was built of inexpensive timber.

The cooperative spirit displayed by these six families has set an example for other residents of the neighborhood. Unattractive backyards are being replaced by large open lawns, attractive walks, and other pleasant landscaping. The children's swimming pool has been a great help in keeping the children out of the streets of this busy city.

Heating Repairs
Made In Hot Months

This is the time of year to paint radiators and heating pipes. Many inquiries are made, concerning the effect of various finishes on the amount of heat transmitted by a radiator. Radiator finishes produce no storage of heat in the coatings or thin radiator walls. They do not materially change the amount of heat given out by conduction or convection, but they do change the amount of radiant heat emitted. This is little changed by the color of the finish, but is affected by the final surface texture.

Metallic paint finishes may retard heat emission as much as 20 per cent. Dull or flat paint ranging from white to black protect the metal practically without impairment of the radiators. For this reason, if it is desirable to cut down the heat from pipes in a furnace room, a bronze or aluminum paint should be used.

Since dull-finished light colors do not greatly affect radiation, radiators can be finished in the same shade as the wall paint. This makes the radiator far less conspicuous than it will be with a strongly contrasting paint.

At the same time, it is often advantageous to be able to distinguish the different exposed heating pipes in the basement, and the use of various colors of these will facilitate their location for repairs.

When Drawers Stick

If the drawers in kitchen cabinets stick, remove them and sandpaper the edges or sides which are causing the trouble. After the drawer has been properly refitted, apply paraffin to the runways and bottom edges to make them run smoothly.

HOME BUYING and BUILDING

Site for Home Deserves Careful Consideration

(Note.—This is the ninth in a series of articles pertaining to the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the National Housing Act. Specific information on any particular subject or previous articles in this series may be obtained by writing to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.)

After the home builder has chosen the general location, he next approaches the problem of the specific lot or site for the proposed house. If he does not exercise care, the home builder or buyer may overlook important items that will prevent themselves later and cause considerable inconvenience and discomfort.

The plot should be considered with great care. Has it water, sewerage connections, gas, electric current, adequate parking? If it is necessary, because of lack of a public sewer, to install a septic tank, what will such a procedure cost? If it is necessary to drill for water, what will that item cost? Is the site level? Is natural drainage possible or does the plot require grading? Have proper precautions been taken to avoid basement flooding? Is the site on a slope? Does the neighboring surface water drain toward the plot? If so, does the drainage system carry off the water properly? Is the site on the top of a hill? Is it exposed to cool winds or is there a windbreak of some kind, such as a row of trees? Is the site in a hollow? Is the property located in a section where night fox and dangerous fire trucks are apt to pass?

Then, planning, grading, cutting, filling, and other landscaping details should also be considered. Possibilities of future additions to the home require consideration.

Then comes the decision concerning the placing of the house on the site. First there will be the question of the exposure and prevailing breezes. Does the dining room get the morning sun? A north light is usually desired for the kitchen, and south and west offer the best exposures for the living rooms, where they get the afternoon sun. The direction from which the prevailing winds come may make it advisable to change this orientation.

Then we come to the relation of the exterior to the working and living areas in the house. The driveway should be near or pass by the service area or kitchen, which should be screened by planting or fences from the living or garden areas. These latter areas are best located where direct access may be had from the living rooms.

While the details to preliminary home planning mentioned here are in no way complete, they are presented to give an idea of the need for planning before a spade of earth is turned.

In this connection it cannot be too strongly stressed that the average home builder when planning a home should avail himself of the services of a competent architect and landscape architect before the lot has even been purchased. Working cooperatively, these advice will be found invaluable in choosing just the correct site for the type of home contemplated. The interesting possibilities that can be realized from an unusual site are seldom secured by the average home builder without the assistance of experts trained to give just this sort of service.

The saving in time, in convenience, comfort, and actual cash will more than justify the fee paid these experts for their advice and counsel. The "get by" policy adopted by some home builders who attempt to avoid the services of qualified experts has proved to be false economy in instances too numerous to mention. By employing an able architect the home builder will receive the maximum return on whatever amount of money he invests in new home comfort. When adequate provision is made for these conditions there is greater assurance for the home builder that a real value will be recognized in the valuation given under the program for insurance of mortgages by the Federal Housing Administration.

Horn Tooters.

August 5, 1935.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Dear Sir:

I live on an uptown corner in a busy section of the city and have an unusually good post of observation for noting the passing traffic and especially those drivers who rend the air and split asphalts with their wholly unnecessary blasts on "horn and klaxon." My nervous system has suffered so much in the two months I have lived on this corner that I have begun to concentrate on devising some means of combating the public enemy number one of peace and quiet—the horn blower who wantonly or stupidly blasts his path from corner to corner and seemingly does it with no interference from the police.

I began my one-man campaign last Saturday morning by calling up a butcher shop to ask the proprietor if he would kindly help by cautioning his delivery man to notice the traffic lights and not use his horn to clear his way in defiance of them—that is what I started to say, but I had barely uttered the first few words when he commanded me to be silent and let him speak, and then he told me it was not his business or mine either if his driver ignored the lights, it was the business of the police and they were not interfering. He added something to the effect that I wouldn't call up the police department and complain, but I assured him that I certainly would do that, and I did so immediately. If all employers of truck drivers take the stand that this one did, it at least throws a light on the psychology of the situation and they must be directly approached and made to assume some responsibility. The merchants who make deliveries can be listed and appealed to in the first place, and this will make for improvement in their drivers—for I know by the evidence of my own eyes and ears that delivery and truck men are constant offenders. Then there is the type of young man driving a car who pauses at a corner and stares vacantly around on a deserted street and yet he blows a loud bark of his horn before he proceeds on his way. This type driver blows his horn out of habit at every corner, red light or green, traffic or no traffic.

But the worst, the most exasperating offenders of all is the driver of a good or new car, often a mature man who ought to know better than to let out two or three blasts of a big horn while he is approaching an intersection, intending to save his time and warn the cross traffic to halt at the peril of a collision. But all the hornblowers fall into various groups that can be defined by a little observation, and if we are ever to regain the blessing of quiet streets each and every class of hornblowers should be dealt with till they are compelled to learn what a horn is for and how seldom it is needed. Their car license covers the proper use of a horn, and so does a pistol license give a man the right to use one when necessary—but he would not keep it long if he amuses himself firing blank cartridges. There should be some organized propaganda to instruct car drivers when to sound a horn and especially when not to—for few and far between are the occasions on which he needs the horn. I have no car and I have sometimes been very grateful for the quick low warning of a horn blow that is just loud enough to stop me. Women especially are careful drivers as a rule and I have never known one to indulge in useless horn blowing. It is a masculine fault exclusively, and a perfectly senseless performance when it is not out of order in the traffic to say nothing of other drivers' rights and their time, but above all the peace and quiet of the whole city is destroyed by day and night. I want to pay tribute to the large majority of car owners and drivers who proceed noiselessly, they really are in a large majority, and it is a pleasure to see their cars swiftly at an even pace for all we are around each other at crowded street intersections without a single sound of a horn, without any slightest infringement of traffic rules but rather with every care to cooperate for the best good of all. The orderly pattern of their movements as I view the scene from my window is a positive pleasure to see on a Sunday afternoon. It recalls to me the streets of New York as they used to be forty years ago before any traffic regulation had been undertaken. The confusion and disorder of traffic was heightened by the shouted oaths of drivers who cursed all along the way. It was a scene of confusion and confusion was the subject of newspaper discussion and finally editorialists of some devoted missionaries who made it their business to frequent the places where the drivers might assemble to mingle with them and try to create a new spirit of cooperation and fraternal feeling, especially to show them what the resultant gains would be to each and all, and that is how hatred and hostility, cursing and swearing, in the streets of New York were combated and wiped out in about two years of unceasing effort. Those blighted drivers of cars, trucks and delivery trucks who screech their way through the streets regardless of everything but what they mistakenly think is their own interest—they need instruction and enlightenment. They need a new spirit that may be awakened by intelligent propaganda and appeals to their reason. Something must be done to develop an intelligent attitude and an ethical sense among a large class of noisy horn-blowing motorists. Why not put the unemployed to work on this important public problem? Some can paint posters, some invent slogans, others do as a small group of young men volunteers did years ago in New York city, and go among the car drivers in a friendly spirit, opening their eyes so they see a light and feel pride in this beautiful old town that richly deserves a restoration of peace and quiet to make it as nearly a perfect beauty spot as the charming old city with its historical houses, tree-lined streets and lovely gardens can be! All it needs is peace and quiet! ONLOOKER.

Hot Weather Gets Hoppers In Minnesota

St. Paul (P)—Even the clouds that brought rust to decimate the northwestern farmer's wheat yields have their silver lining.

A. G. Ruggles, professor of entomology at the University of Minnesota, declared that the sultry and rainy weather responsible for the ravages of black stem rust in the northwest wheat belt this year was the factor that eliminated the grasshopper and chinch bug plagues.

"Grasshoppers and chinch bugs," Ruggles asserted, "have been kept under control by weather this year so that very little damage from either is expected."

Farmers Favored
"This year is the first year in Minnesota's five year battle with grasshoppers that the weather has favored the farmer," the entomologist said.

Heat and excessive moisture this year, he said, created unfavorable conditions for the hatching of millions of eggs laid by grasshoppers that came into Minnesota and North Dakota from Manitoba, Canada, last fall, eliminating an expected "hopper invasion." He pointed out that abundant vegetation, also traceable to the weather, was a factor in keeping the "hoppers" down as the pests were not forced to leave their hatching ground for food.

"Population" Reduced
"The 'hopper population,'" he reported, "has been so reduced that it will be a long period before the number again can reach threatening proportions."

The weather also prevented a threatened outbreak of chinch bugs in southern Minnesota, Ruggles said.

New York Plans Force Of 'X'-Men In Police System

New York (P)—What the G-men are to the federal government, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia expects his recently-conceived "X"-men to be to the city of New York.

It is part of a plan to develop the career system among the city's civil service employees. At present the emphasis is on the police.

The system will give men in the ranks an opportunity to advance into important posts through demonstration of character and ability. Recently, a member of the police force was inducted as a magistrate by LaGuardia.

The "X"-men, according to the mayor's spokesman, will be trained along the lines of the G-men, with laboratory and college courses.

Why "X"-men?
In announcing formation of the group, the mayor said, he called them "X"-men because "X" means unknown quantity. Later, they will be given a formal name.

"Double-date"
Gowns answer
a perplexing question.

Liana Merwin.

As most any girl will agree whether in school or out—having enough clothes and the correct clothes to wear is her greatest problem. So many "dates" make perplexing demands on her wardrobe—and that is why these new double-date frocks rank so high in favor.

Fur trims a great majority of the new season models both for daytime and evening wear, in the form of collars, revers, pockets, cuffs and smaller trimming touches.

The "double-date" frock shown above bespeaks youth in every line, with its stylish one piece dress and a fitted hip length jacket. It is fashioned of black, sheer wool combined with shimmering black satin for that dull and shiny contrast. The short kimono sleeves, draped collar and sash of the dress use satin while the balance of the dress and jacket are of sheer wool.

Persian lamb trims the round collar of the dress and the satin sash. The hip length jacket buttons down the back with self-covered buttons, and is worn pulled under the satin sash of the dress. It is nipped in at the waist by inverted tucks and has long, flared sleeves.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

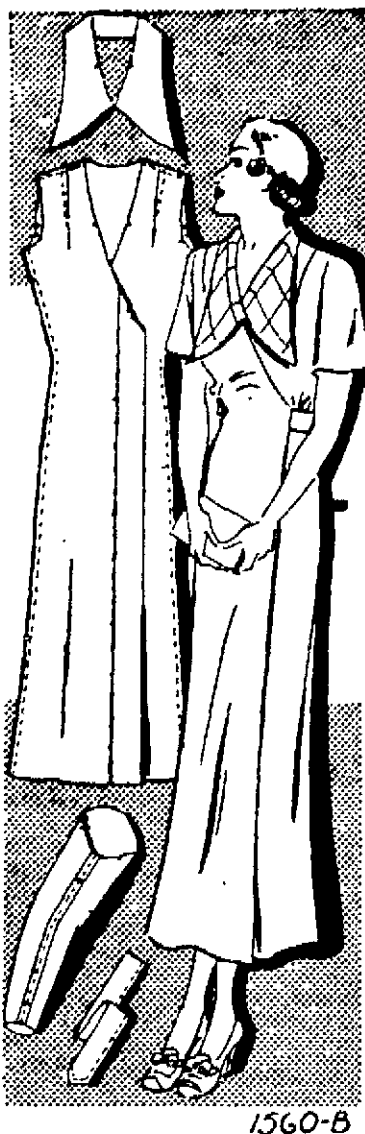

Pattern No. 1560-B

Well Cut Coat-Dress for Busy Mornings

This is an exceedingly well-designed model. One-piece, of course, fastening far over at the side. The collar is a widely pointed affair, becoming and neat in appearance. Sleeves may be short, or long, as you like, and the belt, beginning at the side fronts, and continuing around the back, makes the waistline trim. The simplicity of the thing is illustrated by the sketches of the dress in the process of being put together.

Wash materials are definitely the ones to choose for this type of garment. Fabrics that will tub well, and won't fade, or shrink in an unsightly manner. Percale, seersucker, cotton poplin, pique, even tub silk, are good.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1560-B is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material, and 1/2 yard of 36-inch contrast for collar.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Easy, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubborns refuse anything else. 25c. © 1935, C. M. CO.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's a queer notion for any girl who is in the acting business, but Margaret Sullivan says she means it: "I don't want to be famous."

You get many a glimpse of the Sullivan personality on the set. Today she is not in the scene. A couple of actors are working in the plantation's "big house," and Margaret, star of "So Red the Rose," is just watching. Her hair is neatly coiffured, with a coy braid of roses as tiara in the fashion of belles of the sixties. But instead of the flowing hoopskirt, she wears her favorite costume—slacks and blouse.

There she is—a belle of the old south—in slacks. . . .

Sometimes 'Difficult'

Miss Sullivan has been at times what the publicity boys call "difficult." She would run out of town and not tell anybody where she was going. She wouldn't tell much of anything. But they all liked her anyway. "She has a way with her," you heard them saying. "and you can't help liking her."

At first Margaret Sullivan did not like Hollywood, or maybe it was simply that she liked New York better. Whatever it was, she says now that she does like Hollywood.

"But there's a tendency here to glorify film stars," she says. "In other words, it's considered good business to make gods and goddesses of the players."

Only One Difference!

"I'm not one of those people who rush to Hollywood for the money they can make, then turn about and bite the hand that feeds them. But I do take issue with this policy of manufactured fame. Although I can see both sides. The glorifying is pure showmanship. I know, designed to make a player more interesting to audiences. But I am not a showman and I don't suppose I ever will be."

To the Sullivan way of thinking a movie star is just like the girl who makes her living doing a good job in an office. The "only difference" being that the one job is more "glamorous" than the other.

Margaret Sullivan does not want to be "glamorous."

"Who knows?" she says laughing. "It might ruin me for life. It might give me ideas about myself which would be hard to lose when the time comes to quit."

And no one could very well dispute the fact that Bob Torpin qualified for his victory. Eight thousand youngsters who knew their freckles voted him the honor at the International exposition at San Diego. (Associated Press Photo)

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Men Without Names." The gangsters and "G" men have it hot and heavy all over again in this Paramount story of U. S. Department of Justice agents.

It runs along in the same vein as the Overman, Madge Evans, Leslie Fenton and David Jack Holt all work hard to make the play a hit performance. The trouble with this run of "G" men stories is the unfortunate circumstance that they must necessarily be the same. There must be a gangster and his dirty mob of ruffians on the loose with the serious, methodical eye of the law tracking him down against all odds. For a tough and heartless gangster, Leslie Fenton is well cast in this play, and he heads the lowest mob of rats ever seen in a motion picture. It is a pleasure to see the law pick off his evil crew one by one.

Orpheum: "Stolen Harmony" and "Rescue Squad." George Raft, Grace Bradley and Ben Bernie and his orchestra are to be seen in the opening attraction, a story of a traveling jazz band and what happens when the band leader employs a dancer who just got his release from prison. There is plenty of music, some real comedy and the dance numbers are a treat to see. "Rescue Squad" is the second full length feature starring Ralph Forbes.

Kingston: "A Dog of Flanders" and "Baby Face Harrington." The opening play at the Kingston is probably the world's most beloved story of a boy and his dog. It is a perfectly done bit of screen work and is recommended to the entire family. Frankie Thomas, O. P. Heggie and Helen Parrish are in the cast.

"Baby Face Harrington" is a study in mistaken identity wherein a timid, retiring little fellow is mistaken for a tough gangster, and before he show is finished, any audience is sure to find enough laughs and side splitting situations to please anyone. A fine cast offers Charles Butterworth, Eugene Palette, Una Merkel and Harvey Stephens.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

(By The Associated Press)

Thirteen Regrets
Wheeling, W. Va.—Joseph Lavack said he wasn't superstitious, but the judge liked everything to be fitting. The victim in a fight with Lavack had 13 stitches taken in cuts. Lavack was the thirteenth case on the docket.

The judge sent him to county prison for 13 months.

Going, Going
Atlanta, Ga.—Licenses for horse-drawn public drays have fallen in ten years from 400 to one.

Needs Patience
Johnson City, Tenn.—Richard D. Turner's wife left him 23 years ago to visit relatives. Turner, tired of waiting for her return, has filed suit for divorce.

Gringo Lingo
Arkansas City, Kas.—Raymond Wright, Bob Elston and Bill Hamilton only wanted to go to a bull fight on their first trip to Mexico. However, they ran into language difficulties at Bilbao.

They couldn't find the arena, so they sought help of shopkeepers. They watched fingers in lieu of horns, they drew orders and went through motions. At the cafe where they tried the latter they were brought a beef sandwich.

Salad on Stilts
Seattle, Wash.—Daniel O'Connell, bedridden three years from paralysis and asthma, is whiling away the time at Marine Hospital growing a tomato plant. It now is nine feet tall and still is growing.

"I picked the seed out of a salad and planted it. Then I gave it a hypodermic of silver and its quite outgrown itself," O'Connell explained.

Brakeman Killed
New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Robert Jacoby, 35, of Chatham, N. Y., a brakeman on a northbound milk train of the New York Central railroad, was killed early today when his head struck a signal post at Park avenue and 152nd street.

He was knocked off the train and under the wheels.

One thing about an automobile that never fails to run is the monthly payment plan.

falling at the time. The claim was referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

Similar action was taken on a claim of A. W. Mollott for $33.50, the amount of a plumbing bill for digging up the street in front of his place of business at 202 Wall street.

Seeks $1,000 Damages.

Jennie B. Williamson, through her attorney, George F. Kaufman, filed a damage claim against the city to recover $1,000. She lives in New Rochelle, and claims she was injured in a fall on John street on June 17. The claim was referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

Mayor's Plan Approved.

Mayor Heiselman filed with the council the communication received from the state comptroller approving of Mayor Heiselman's plan to reduce next year's tax rate nearly $5 by issuing debt equalization bonds.

Auditors Retained.

The council entered into a contract with Mills & Company, who annually audit the city's books. The contract was for $1,800, the same amount as in previous years.

Council Approves Deal

Mayor Heiselman forwarded to the council a deed from the Delaware Valley and Kingston Railroad dealing approximately seven acres of land adjoining Block Park to the city, and also that part of West Strand known as Dock street, and also the Company Office Hill in the rear of Temple Emanuel. The deed was accepted by the council. The land adjoining Block Park will be used in enlarging the playground there.

No Parking Allowed

The council unanimously adopted an ordinance which prohibits the parking of cars on either side of Crown street from John street to North Front street.

Resolutions Made

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards and departments:

At Alderman Cornwell—that water department take under consideration the advisability of extending the water main on Glen street.

Alderman Leirey—that first avenue be oil and also second avenue.

Alderman Ashby—that board of Public Works or E.R.B. investigate and remedy sewer conditions on Catherine street; that Catherine street be rebuilt.

Alderman Doherty—that Russell and Adams streets be topdressed; that McEntee street be widened and curbed as a relief project; that a water line be installed on Webster street.

Alderman Leirey—that a fence be erected around the small lake in the upper part of Hasbrouck Park; that in line with the safety campaign month, advocated by Mayor Heiselman, that police department caution auto drivers, who persistently drive under railroad gates, at the various city crossing after the gateman has sounded whistle and is lowering the gates; that culvert at Cross street and first avenue be cleaned; that light at 97 Highland avenue and Hasbrouck Place be shaded.

Alderman Epstein—that board of Public Works install drinking fountains at points convenient for tourists; that Newkirk avenue be repaved as well as hole in Chamber street hill; that fire board repair the Weber Hose house on Mill street; that catch basin be built at Broadway and Stuyvesant street.

Alderman Kolts—that committee on railroads and buses ask the New York Central to place a permanent flagman or signal lights at the intersection of Hasbrouck avenue, Prince street, O'Reilly and Garden streets and direct the discontinuance of ringing of engine bell by engineer as it disturbs the neighborhood; that E.R.B. consider the construction of a sewer in Grant street as a project under the new setup; that Central Hudson Gas & Electric remove defective shade from light in front of 112 East Chester street or increase the size of the bulb.

Alderman Reinhard—that board of public works cut weeds on Abel

Some of the Features To Be Seen At The Boy Scout Jamboree

Among the exhibits that should give a thrill to the thousands of Boy Scouts, including over 40 from Ulster and Greene counties, who will attend the first national jamboree to be held in Washington August 21 to 30, will be a display of much of the equipment that was used by Admiral Byrd in his South Pole expedition. The exhibit will include the Fairchild plane which was buried under snow and ice for five years, the airplane, trail sledges, dog harnesses, skis and poles that were used by Admiral Byrd himself. There will also be the actual hut in which Byrd spent 134 days without another human being, nor even a dog, for company.

Among other features at the jamboree will be:

Scout Daily Newspaper.

A tabloid newspaper, with circulation estimated at 50,000, will be published by the Scouts themselves. It will be edited entirely by Boy Scouts and Scout leaders and there will be Scout photographers and cartoonists. The paper will go to press shortly after midnight and be distributed to the 28 sectional camps before breakfast.

Bull Whip Experts.

Three troops from Oklahoma will be made up of Scouts who are bull whip experts. With their 8-foot rawhides these boys, it is said, will give a real exhibition of "snapping the whip." Their stunts will include flicking the ashes from the end of a cigar held in a man's mouth, picking a penny from between a person's fingers, encircling the ankles of an antagonist and holding him captive, and other tricks.

Two U. S. Destroyers

The Navy Department will have two U. S. destroyers at the Jamboree. The U. S. S. Herbert is one of the two that will anchor in front of the Sea Scout camp where a fleet of 34 Sea Scout ships are expected to rendezvous. The Coast Guard has agreed to have on exhibition one of their newest and finest 260-foot ships, the Mendotta, and a life saving crew will give a complete course of instruction to the scouts.

Philippine Scouts

A full troop of 33 scouts and three leaders, representing the new Philippine Commonwealth in its first year of independence, sailed from Manila July 17. They will get their pre-jamboree training at the Seattle scout camp and will then join the cavalcade of thousands of Scouts from the four northwestern states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana. It will be something new on the streets of the capital to see these scouts parading with the flag of the new Philippine Commonwealth at their head.

The "Unknown" Scout

Some time during the Jamboree the whole encampment will pause to salute the unknown little English boy whose act of courtesy was responsible for bringing scouting to America. He lived in London, in 1909, and was one of Lord Baden-Powell's early recruits to the English Scouts. He guided an American who was lost in a London fog and when offered a "tip," refused, with the explanation, "a scout never accepts pay for helping people."

Dish Washing Vanished

The method of disposing of dirty street and Bernard street and clean gutter on the latter street; that board of public works repair the guard rail on DeWitt street.

Alderman Cornwell—that street light at Marius and Elizabeth streets be changed to a larger type bulb. Alderman Renn—that board of public works or E.R.B. erect tennis courts on Barmann's lot; that a traffic light be placed at corner of Henry street and Broadway; that tree in front of 15 Liberty street be trimmed; that Greenkill avenue in front of Nos. 13, 15 and 17, be graded to allow water to run in catch basin.

Alderman Epstein—that board of public works repair Murray street, between Ann and Chambers streets. The council then adjourned.

dishes at the Jamboree may be the means of revolutionizing housekeeping in the United States, so far as the dish-washing problem is concerned. Millions of plates, cups and dishes, instead of being "laundered after each meal, will be "burned at the stake." This is not only something new in camping procedure, but it may even mean the dawn of a new day for kitchen procedure of a more genteel nature.

American Scouts from China

Six scouts, all of American parentage, five of them born in China, all speaking Chinese with the fluency of a native and all members of Tungchow Troop 1 of Peking, China, are on their way to the Jamboree. They will represent the oldest active troop of American scouts on foreign soil in existence anywhere. This contingent is entirely apart from the eight Chinese Boy Scouts which the Chinese government has picked to represent the nation at the Jamboree.

Treasure of the Trail

The 1,500 scouts of the northwestern will bring with them the "treasures of the trail," depicting the outdoor life of that region. There will be the wigwams of the Chipewas, tepees of the Sioux, Red River ox carts, birch bark canoes, dog sleds and pack saddles, with displays of plant life, mining equipment, Indian relics, etc.

Scientist Is Eager To Freeze Man, Keep Him So 100 Years

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 7 (AP)—Want to see what the world looks like in 100 years or even 1,000 years from now?

The time may come, says Dr. Robert E. Cornish, Berkeley scientist, when a man may do so simply by going to a laboratory, having himself frozen solid and put away with a tag indicating when he wishes to be thawed out.

Dr. Cornish's experiments last year in reviving dogs put to death clinically attracted wide attention. The possibility of a century-nap was brought up during his comments today on experiments in which Dr. Ralph Willard, Hollywood gland research specialist, revived a monkey after it had been frozen stiff for three days.

Dr. Cornish said Dr. Willard's work "seems to be quite a remarkable achievement," and opened up great possibilities. "It has been known for years that you can take young fish, freeze them solid and then thaw them out, and they will recover entirely. He (Dr. Willard) is the first to do it with warm blooded animals."

"This experiment makes it possible to take a man of, say 40 years of age, inject sodium citrate into his blood, freeze him and put him away for a thousand years, or as long as he is kept frozen very cold to prevent any changes in the body. Then thaw him out and he would go on living."

He explained the sodium citrate was necessary to keep the blood from clotting, which, he said, was apparently the fatal thing when a person freezes to death.

Pasturage Is Good This Year, Says Report

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP)—Pastures are in better condition generally than usual at this time of the year, and crops are in good condition, says the weekly summary of weather and crop conditions in New York state, released today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture Station at Cornell University.

"Early potatoes are nearly all dug on Long Island," said the summary, "while the vines of the late crops are going down rapidly. Generally, the late crop promises well elsewhere, although some fields are weedy and late blight is reported in some sections."

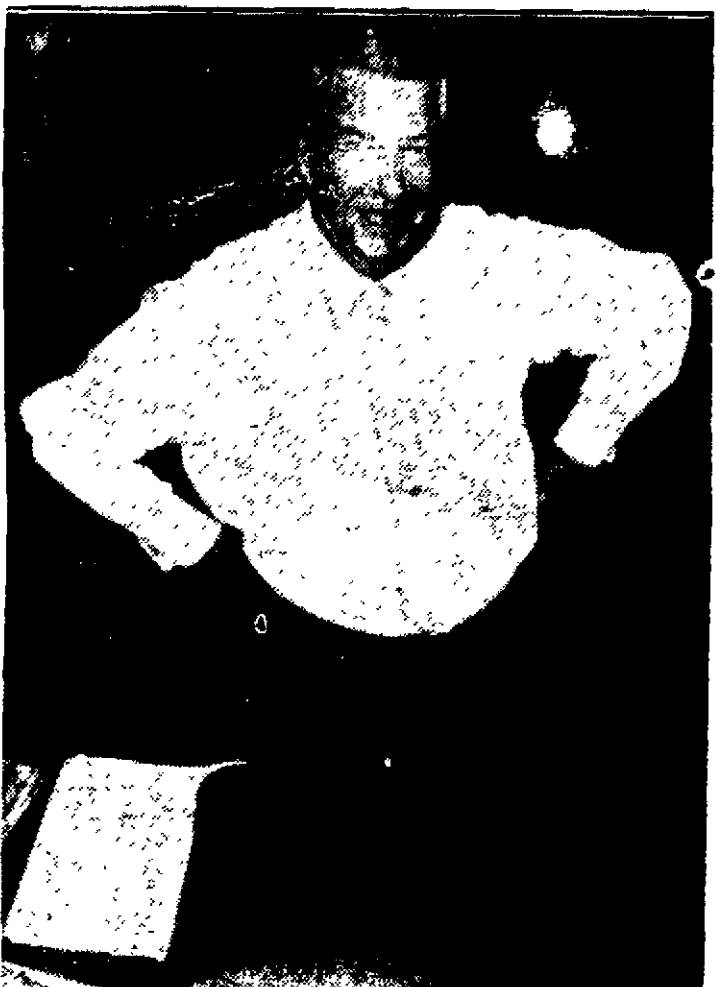

"The sour cherry harvest is almost finished, while early apples are being marketed. Disease caused by wet weather is beginning to show in some orchards and vineyards. Truck crops are developing well, except some early cauliflower has been damaged by wet weather." The summary is for the week ended Aug. 6.

REFUSES TO QUIT HIS JOB

A photographer climbed to a precarious perch outside an eleventh floor window to make this picture of Otto F. Aken, who refused to quit as superintendent of Cook county schools, Chicago, when Noble J. Puffer, elected to the post, tried to take over. Aken is shown barricaded in an inner office. Puffer lurked disconsolately outside. (Associated Press Photo)

Singer Gives Up Gas Station For Fuel Oil

William (Bill) Singer, well known boxing referee, has given up his filling station business on East Strand and Ferry street. George Nettles and Irving Myers are now conducting the station selling Cities Service products, the same as Singer handled.

Singer, who has been in the gasoline business for more than 13 years, will devote his time now to the sale of fuel oil and coal and the wholesale distribution of gasoline for Singer & Frederick, Inc., a firm that formed for business about six months ago.

Both Myers and Nettles are well acquainted with the operation of the station formerly conducted by Singer, the latter having been employed by him for some time.

The woman who knows how to manage a man never lets him in on the secret.

Man (on meeting a girl on the street)—I sent you a kiss over the telephone. I hope you understood it.
Girl—Oh, yes. I understood, all right enough. But to me a kiss over the telephone is like a straw hat.
Man—A straw hat? How?
Girl—Why, it isn't felt.

Air-conditioning gives you home-made weather complete in every detail except thunder, and marriage gives you that.

Mother—Junior, you better not eat any more chicken. You must leave room for the cake.
Junior—I got plenty room, mother. The chicken can move over.

There is nothing like the sight of an old flame to make a man's heart burn.

Two small boys were walking in the woods seeking adventure when they picked up a chestnut hurr.
"Tommy," called one to the other, "come here quick. I've found a porcupine egg."

Bridegroom: A kind of tool used to obtain a sweet ring, a swell wedding and a darling little apartment.

Boy—What's leisure, daddy?
Father—Leisure, my son, is the two minutes' rest a man gets while his wife is hunting up something else for him to do.

It seems unfair to call the hog a hog. He never eats more than he wants because he is eating away from home.

Friend—Do you think you have found a job this time?
Maid—Yes, I saw one of mistress' visiting cards and she is only at home on Thursdays from 3 to 5.

Friends.
When clouds of trouble hover, we need a friend that's true,
When life is bright and sunny, most any one will do.

New Bride—John, you don't love me any more. You always used to give me the biggest helpings, now you take them for yourself.

New Groom (the shrewd diplomat)—Darling, Sugar Pie! That's nonsense. You cook much better now.

The big blonde across the street says that many a bachelor gets married through a miss understanding.

Butler—Beg pardon, your lordship, but there's a burglar down stairs.

English Barrister—Very well, Parkinson: bring my gun and sports suit—the heather mixture.

Heart disease does not always prove fatal. Some girls recover and marry another boy.

The Presbyterian minister had been called to the bedside of a Methodist woman who was very ill. Going to the house, he met the sick woman's small daughter.

Presbyterian Minister—I'm glad your mother remembered me in her illness. I suppose your own pastor is out of town?

Small Girl—Oh, no! He's at home, but we thought mother might have something catching, and we didn't want him to be exposed to it.

As We Sow.
We sow our thoughts, and we reap our actions;
We sow our actions, and we reap our habits;
We sow our habits, and we reap our characters;
We sow our characters, and we reap our destiny.

Wife—She says her husband is a man of insight.
Husband—Yes, and believe me, he never gets out of hers.

Many a girl who says she could have married anyone she pleased, has never pleased anybody to that extent.

GAS BUGGIES—The Best of Friends Will Do It.

Bad News for Coast Bandits

LOS ANGELES police will get around faster—and the city will save money—with these forty-seven Buicks just added to the city's patrol fleet. Los Angeles has been using motor patrols since 1923, when three Buicks were purchased. Since then the fleet has grown steadily, and within 24 months after the inauguration of radio patrolling covered 6,142,477 miles, answering 292,490 radio calls in an average of 2 minutes and 40 seconds each. Municipal authorities say the use of motor patrols cuts down police operating costs, enabling patrolmen to cover a greater territory more efficiently than afoot. The Los Angeles cars are operated at a cost of from 1.5c to 2.1c per mile.

The World

ON WHEELS

Excavation has been begun at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Mich., for two new batteries of coke ovens which, when completed, will provide 8,000,000 cubic feet more gas per day for plant operations than is now available from sources within the Rouge grounds. The excavation marks the first step in a project which will cost $4,000,000. Foundations for the two batteries, each comprising 61 ovens, will be laid before winter, and the ovens will be ready to produce by next summer. The $4,000,000 will pay for improvements to present by-products production equipment in addition to actual installation of ovens.

Safety as "Everybody's Business" is the theme of a new motion picture just completed as a part of a vigorous national campaign to teach the principles of safe driving to America's motoring millions. "Everybody's Business" was produced in Hollywood for the Plymouth Motor Corporation, long a leader in safety education, and will be shown in thousands of motion picture theatres throughout the United States soon. The film was pre-viewed here by automobile editors, police officials and executives of the motor car industry.

"Everybody's Business" dramatically presents the major causes of motor car accidents by analyzing the reasons behind the sometimes fatal events which happen with split-second quickness on streets and highways.

A new rail-highway motor truck, loaded with rubber tires from the plant of The B. F. Goodrich Company and consigned to its warehouse in Cleveland recently made a successful test run from Akron to Cleveland over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks, turned off the rails at West Third street and then proceeded to its destination.

Dodge dealers continued the excellent showing which has marked their business so far this year, through the week ending July 27. During that week they delivered 5,133 Dodge passenger cars and trucks and 2,612 Plymouths, or a total of 7,745 vehicles, as against 7,675 vehicles delivered in the preceding week. The week's delivery volume of 7,745 vehicles marked a gain of 30.1 per cent over the delivery record for the corresponding week of 1934 in which deliveries amounted to 5,953.

The way they are scattering money at Washington leads us to suggest that the emblem of the New Deal party on the ballot next year ought to be a scoop shovel.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JACGER

New York, Aug. 7 (P)—Mildly conflicting influences ruled the stock market today.

A selected group of industrial, metals and merchandising shares performed on the upside, some making new 1935 highs, while oil shares were further depressed and rails and utilities were hesitant.

Other financial and commodity markets acted little more exclusively. Wheat and other grains could do no better than hold even in Chicago, and cotton tilted backward a trifle during early trading. Corporate bonds perked up, but U. S. Government bonds were uneven. Further losses in gold currencies gave foreign exchange markets a mixed tone.

Prominent shares making new 1935 highs included Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and General Motors, all with gains of nearly a point.

Others joining in the upturn included American Can, Air Reduction, Eastman Kodak, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Anaconda, American Smelting, National Department Stores, Interborough and Westinghouse. American Telephone, Santa Fe, Consolidated Gas and New York Central were among others holding about even.

N.Y. State Police Know Where Schultz Hides, Albany Report Says

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 7 (P)—Although Dutch Schultz has mysteriously dropped from public view, there were indications today that the "Scotland Yard" bureau of the New York State Police knows where he is and plans to keep an eye on the erstwhile Bronx gangster until he has kept his appointment with the State Tax Commission in court tomorrow.

Schultz' whereabouts have been a secret since he vanished from his hotel in Syracuse at noon yesterday—at the same time that his representatives threatened a legal fight against the order summoning Schultz into New York city, where he will be in charge of a federal indictment.

Captain John P. Dutton of the state police admitted today that somewhere the eyes of a trooper detective may be on Schultz.

"We are not actually shadowing him, but some of the troop captains may be keeping track of him," Captain Dutton said.

Mark Graves, president of the State Tax Commission, which yesterday demanded payment of $37,000 in income taxes, allegedly owed by Schultz to the state, said today that the commission was not shadowing Schultz.

The Tax Commission obtained a summons directing Schultz to appear in Supreme Court in New York city tomorrow for an examination as to whether or not he has a taxable property with which the state can satisfy its claim.

All attempts to "arrange a settlement" of the claim have been turned down.

Milton Bernard, Schultz' New York agent, pleaded for delay and reduction and threatened to use legal tape, while a man giving the name of Frank T. Taffe, Albany accountant, warned the tax commission it was "sticking its chin out."

State Commissioner Mark Graves remained adamant.

"We are not interested in anything except the payment in full of the money due the state," he said.

Noonan refused to comment on what action he was considering.

"I haven't determined what I will do," he said, "and I am not ready to make any statement about our plans."

He emphasized that he hadn't seen Schultz and "don't even know where he is."

"The former beer baron has not been reported seen since he disappeared from a Syracuse hotel yesterday, not many hours after the state tax commission served him with the order to appear in New York."

Commissioner Graves said this morning he had no idea where Schultz had gone and would not be interested in his whereabouts until the time he has been ordered to appear in court tomorrow.

He said that if Schultz and his lawyers were taking the legal steps threatened by Bernard yesterday "we haven't heard of it and don't know anything about it."

Florence Jackson Says She Saw Ferris Shoot Howard C. Dickinson

Detroit, August 7 (P)—Florence Jackson, one of the women defendants on trial with William Lee Ferris in the slaying of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, admitted under cross-examination today that she saw Ferris stand over Dickinson's body and fire a shot.

This contradicted testimony she gave on direct examination Tuesday that she heard a shot while she was behind the death car but did not see Dickinson shot.

Before court opened today Florence Jackson's attorney had announced that, "under cross-examination my client will testify that Ferris stepped from the car and shot Dickinson in cold blood and that he did so without provocation."

If the prosecutor did not bring out this statement, Miss Jackson's attorney said, he would do it himself on re-direct examination. There have been indications throughout the trial that the attorneys for the four defendants planned a policy of "everyone for himself."

State Firemen To Meet At Greenport

The annual convention of the State Firemen's Association will be held at Greenport, L. I., on August 20 to 24 inclusive, and it promises to be one of the most interesting conventions held by the association.

Among the many matters to be taken up will be those affecting the status of volunteer firemen in the state.

Mark Rosenthal of Hudson is chairman of the topic committee and he has been active in obtaining a list of prominent speakers who will talk on matters of interest to firemen.

Judge Henry E. McKenzie of Port Jervis is associated with Mr. Rosenthal on the topic committee and is assisting him in preparing the program for the convention.

Of the 23 counties in west Tennessee, all but two took their names from American soldiers, patriots, and statesmen.

Hurley Says Law Firm Got $100,000 From Associated In 3 Years

Washington, Aug. 7 (P)—In a hearing punctuated by frequent clashes, Patrick J. Hurley, Hoover secretary of war, testified to the senate lobby committee today his law firm had received $100,000 in the last three years from the Associated Gas and Electric system.

Explaining he represented the shareholders, he asserted: "I've never taken a case from anyone that was incompatible with the public welfare and these shareholders have a constitutional right to my services."

During one of the frequent altercations with committee members, the outspoken Hurley shouted: "Oh, yes, you gentlemen are all prosecutors."

Frequently he accused committee men of "putting words in my mouth" and at one point inquired sarcastically why he was not asked if he had quit beating his wife.

"I am a gold fish in a bowl," he shouted another time. "You can see me from any angle."

Forsts Score Second Straight Win in Blanking Dairymen, 5-0

Forst's Formosa registered their second shutout in as many games when they had one big inning—the second—against Jones' Dairymen at the Athletic Field, Tuesday evening. The score was 5 to 0. "Pucker" Davis again was the winning pitcher and besides turning in his second shutout he also ran his string of victories to three straight without a loss.

The victory also was a big help to the Formosa for it kept them in the running for second half honors in the City League. They have now won three and tasted defeat once, while the leaders—Crystal Beauty Shoppe and Berardi A. C.—have two in the win column. Their slate in the lost column is still clean.

Davis had to be at his best, because he found his equal in Johnny Cullen, who really pitched as good ball. In fact, Cullen yielded one less hit than Davis and if it hadn't been for loose playing by his teammates in the second stanza he also might have come out unscathed.

Johnny Carpenter and Wendell Scherer were the only batters to pole more than one safety, each collecting two. Ad Stumpf, with a two-bagger, was the only extra-base hitter.

A walk to Jack Dawkins started the Formosa off on their big rally in the second inning, during which they chased five runners across the plate. Carpenter followed the walk with a single through second base when Scherer was pulled out of position, thinking Dawkins was going to steal. Gadd booted Carpenter's hit and before it was retrieved Dawkins was safely home. Rider hit to Purvis and he obliged by throwing the ball out of the park, Carpenter scoring and Rider taking third. Davis sent Rider home with a long fly to Carr in right field. Stumpf continued with a double to centerfield and scored when Purvis threw Kelder's grounder away. Scherer committed error No. 4 on Knight's grounder and Kelder brought home the final run of the game.

The Dairymen put two men on the sacks without an out in the last inning and had an elegant chance of avoiding a shutout, but Jimmy Merritt spoiled their chance by grabbing two fly balls. Davis struck Nardi out for the final out.

The Dairymen also had other opportunities to score. In the first inning they advanced a runner to third base but left him there. Again in second they stranded another hopeful runner. In the fourth they also managed to get runners on first and second, but as before they lacked the necessary punch.

SIDELINERS

The boys in the outer garden made some real spectacular catches. Hanley robbed Kelder of a hit in the first and Carr stole one on Dawkins in the fifth. In the sixth Maher, playing first, took one away from Rider.

Bob Purvis, regular shortstop, switched to third base and had a hard time finding the range. He tossed two away before he could get one right.

After the third inning Cullen elbowed hitless ball.

The pitchers were too good for the batters so the case of Burgomaster donated by Fitzgerald Bros. for the first homer of the week is still safe.

Tonight the undefeated leaders—Crystal Beauty Shoppe and Berardi A. C.—meet.

SPORT SLANTS

Number 13 holds no terrors for Ted Lyons, veteran pitcher of the Chicago White Sox. In his 13th season in the big show and with the White Sox, the 34-year-old moundsman is setting the pace for toasters in the American league with 11 victories to show against 3 defeats.

Lyons' career in the majors is studded with many pitching gems—as well as a fair share of disappointments. He stepped into baseball's hall of fame in 1926, when he set down the Boston Red Sox without a single hit. Three times he wound up the season with more than 20 victories to his credit. In 1925 he had 21; in 1927, 22; and in 1930, also 22. A truly remarkable record when you consider that it was achieved with a team suffering from a chronic cellar complex.

Just as he has hit the high spots so, too, has Ted felt the pangs of failure. In 1933 he was charged with 21 defeats, more than any other pitcher on the circuit that season. He finished last season with 11 wins against 13 losses, to finish 47th on the list rated on the earned run averages and 39th in the games won percentages.

Early in the season the White Sox veteran was overshadowed by the sensational pace cut out by Johnny Whitehead, but as the season wore on the rookie's curves became less and less of a puzzle and it was then that fans began to notice the grand job Lyons was doing to keep the White Sox going at a pace that has continued to confound the experts.

Lyons will celebrate his 35th birthday in December.

A "Dumb" Phi Beta?

A few years ago when Larry MacPhail, now business manager and vice-president of the Cincinnati Reds, was president of the American Association he had on his payroll a young infielder named Burgess Whitehead.

One morning when the Red Birds were engaged in their usual morning workout, Harry Leibold, manager of the team, walked into MacPhail's office and made the suggestion that it would do the team no great harm if the services of young Whitehead were dispensed with.

"All right," agreed MacPhail, "send him in to see me after the drill and I'll figure out some place where we can ship him. But tell me, just why do you feel so sure that he will never make the grade?"

"He's too dumb," replied Leibold. "An hour or so later Whitehead was shown into MacPhail's office. The very first thing that caught the ever-alert MacPhail's eye was the Phi Beta Kappa key which dangled on a chain across Whitehead's vest! Anyhow, He Stayed."

So MacPhail led Whitehead to believe that he had been summoned there for a friendly chat for the purpose of getting better acquainted and not once did the matter of his release come up.

After Whitehead had departed, MacPhail sent for his manager.

"What's the idea of telling me that this Whitehead is dumb? Why he has a Phi Beta Kappa key," said MacPhail.

"You don't say!" It was quite evident from Leibold's expression that he wasn't exactly certain of what the Phi Beta Kappa key represented.

Whitehead stayed on with the Red Birds until the St. Louis Cardinals took him up. Later, he has been doing very well as Frankie Frisch's substitute at second base.

THE STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

Dizzy Dean, having peeked over the fence to observe the feats of Wes Ferrell in the American League, whaled out a tenth inning home run yesterday to give the Cards a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati.

The mighty sock added another pitching victory to the record of the fractious twirler, running his total to 18, highest in the National League. Ferrell leads the American League with 18.

It was on July 21 that Ferrell rode the ball out of the field to save Lefty Grove's six game winning streak. The next day, against St. Louis, he again homered in the ninth to win for the Red Sox.

It is not unlikely that Dizzy was thinking of those feats yesterday. He went to the mound in the seventh and held Cincinnati hitless for four innings.

With the score tied at 3 in the tenth, Bill Delancey got a lucky double, Charley Gilbert was passed and Leo Durocher sacrificed. Dean stepped to the plate, and the ball sailed into the left grandstand.

The Brooklyn Dodgers shaved a full game off the Giants' lead as Tom Zachary coaxed another victory from his aged arm. The Giants got 11 hits but only one run. The final score was 3-1.

The victory, combined with the Chicago Cubs 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh, cut the Giants' margin to three games. Roy Henshaw was on the mound for the Cubs, but it took a brace of errors on a freak play to turn the trick.

Bill Jurgens got a single in the third and then Henshaw, trying to bunt, popped one into the hands of Birkofer. The pitcher, apparently intending to trap Jurgens and get both runners, intentionally dropped the ball, then got confused and threw wild to first.

By the time Suhr got it, Jurgens was nearing third. Suhr threw to the left field boxes, and Jurgens scored.

The Boston Braves defeated the Phillies 4-0 behind the three hit pitching of Bob Smith. For seven and one-third innings the Braves did not allow a single man to reach first. Dolph Camilli dispelled the dream of a perfect game with a clean single.

In the only American League game, the Washington Senators collected 14 hits to score their second straight victory over the Athletics, 11-2. The Senators scored ten runs in the first two innings, while square-riggered Bump Hadley held the visitors to seven safe blows.

Fred Perry Departs For U.S. Tournament

London, Aug. 7 (AP).—Fred Perry sailed for the United States aboard the Berengaria today but Helen V. Perry, American actress, wasn't even at the boat train to see him off despite rumors they soon will be married in New York.

"I can't discuss the matter," Perry said, "but it will be nice to be my own captain and manager for the American championships so I can tell myself when to go to bed."

Perry, world's greatest amateur tennis player, will begin defense of the American title at Forest Hills August 29.

Friesel Lowers Ten Year Old Swim Mark

Paul Friesel, specialist in the new butterfly breaststroke who broke the world's record for the event at 100 yards by 2-5 of a second at Williams Lake on July 28, shattered a 10-year old mark when he won the 110 yard breaststroke event during the second day of the Daily News Water Circus at Jones Beach Saturday.

Friesel, using the same type stroke which he displayed at Williams Lake, outdistanced his competitors in a sensational race and shattered the old record established by Walter Spence in July, 1925, at Coney Island by 2 and 9-10 seconds.

The butterfly stroke which is still in its infancy, is destined to displace the orthodox breaststroke for short distances the same as the crawl stroke made obsolete the trudgen stroke for all distances, according to leading swimming experts. The stroke, which was approved by swimming officials all over the world about a year ago, is being adopted by many of the younger competitive swimmers.

Stars Enter Auto Races At Rhinebeck

Rhinebeck, Aug. 7.—The eastern champion auto race driver is the second great star to enter the A. A. A. sanctioned open competitive auto races to be held at the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck on Saturday afternoon, August 31.

This year's eastern title holder is Ben Shaw, of Westfield, N. J. He will drive the Miller 4 cylinder 220 inch piston displacement motor that was formerly driven by the late Johnnie Hannon, who was killed in the qualifying try-outs before the Indianapolis race. Shaw has kept ahead of the other eastern drivers all season by a margin of 50 points, and his close competitor is Bob Sall with Doc MacKenzie in third position.

At least 25 of the best known drivers, in the country are assured for the first big league meet to be held in this section.

Chicago, August 7 (AP).—The imaginations stirred by the prospect of a duplicate of the immortal Jack Dempsey-Louie Firpo thriller, upwards of 40,000 action hungry fans will pack Comiskey Park tonight to watch Joe Louis, brown bomber from Detroit, throw his devastating bombs at the Kingfish, King Levinsky of Chicago.

The prebattle setup was almost a carbon copy of the Dempsey-Firpo drama of flying fists and tumbling bodies except that no heavyweight championship prize will be at stake tonight. Louis, cool and deliberate, was the better strategist and boxer like the Manassa mauler of old but before him he had a man like Firpo, who didn't know what danger meant, a man who could smash his iron fists through a two inch board, take a blow or two like it in return, and then come back to give more.

Louis, winner of spectacular knockouts in 19 out of 23 professional fights, ruled the favorite at varying odds from two to three to one with plenty of takers from the pro-Levinskys. Even the pro-Levinskys had a suspicion that Louis packed too many bombs for the pride of Chicago's Maxwell street but they wanted to find out—and all the boxing world wanted to know—if Louis could take what Levinsky has to hand out and still come back and give what he's got.

Both principals, great oratorical contrasts, were sure of victory in tonight's battle, which was billed for 10 rounds. Louis, stolid and uncommunicative, said he would knock out Levinsky within five rounds, but Levinsky...

"This guy Louis has been meeting pushovers," snarled the Kingfish, "and tonight, I'll prove it. He's never had a punch hit him like I've got. He's my cousin and they can hold the funeral anytime. I'll hand him flowers. He won't give me none."
